TWT: COVID Tongue, Loss of Smell & Taste + Other Viral Abnormalities

CHANGE YOUR BODY. CHANGE YOUR LIFE.

It's time to settle the mystery once and for all as to why people are losing their sense of taste and smell, as well as dealing with other strange viral anomalies...

On today's show, I break down how and why people lose these certain senses, how to get them back, and why conventional medicine is perplexed about this new "COVID tongue" being seen in many cases...

Remember, there is more than one form of medicine in the world and luckily we can look to these other healing modalities in order to discover why our body becomes imbalanced when it gets sick...

For all the details on COVID tongue, loss of smell and taste, plus other viral abnormalities tune into today's #CabralConcept 1873 - Enjoy the show and let me know if you have any questions!

EPISODE TAKEAWAYS

1

White Furry Tongue

A white furry appearance on your tongue can signify weakened digestion, inflammation, or heat within the body.

2

Geographic Tongue

A "geographic" tongue looks like different colored red patches on the tongue that might be viewed as ulcers or "hotspots." This is often seen in yeast overgrowth or other microbiome imbalances.

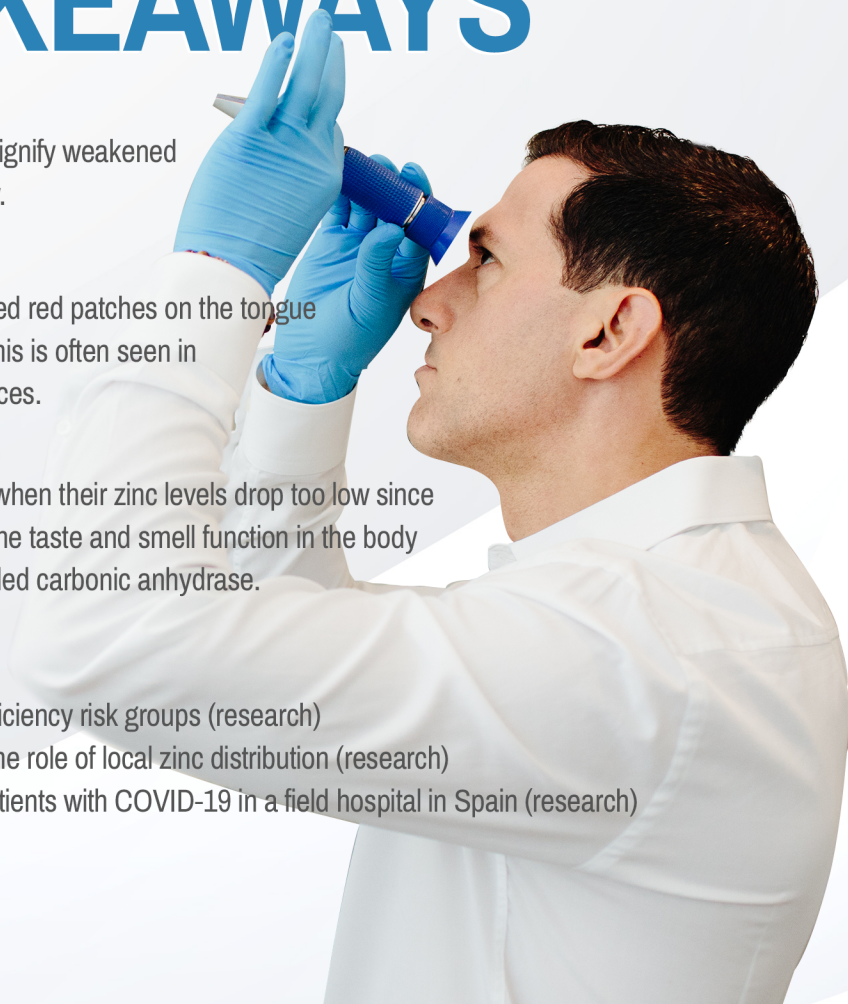

3

Why You Lose Your Senses

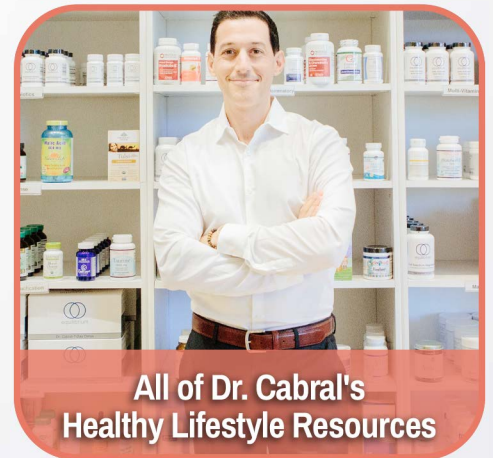

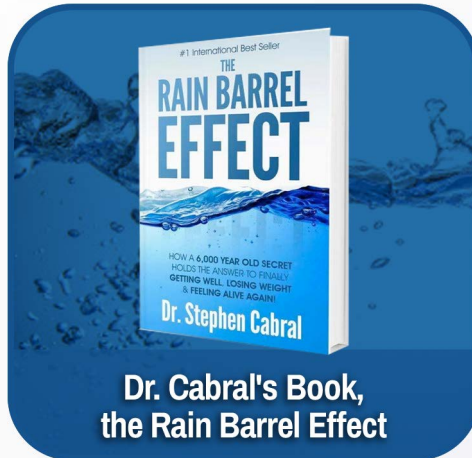

People often lose their sense of smell or taste when their zinc levels drop too low since zinc is one of the enzymes critical to maintain the taste and smell function in the body based on a zinc dependent metalloenzyme called carbonic anhydrase.
